

Panel Discussion:

Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership

Wednesday, April 12th at 5pm in the Gallery

Please join us for a panel discussion with guests Paolo Zagami and Pietro Paganini, as they discuss the Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership and its implications on business regulation, environmental legislation, banking, and sovereign powers in the U.S. and Europe.

Paolo Zagami, a Commercial Law professor and immigration lawyer, is the founder of his own international law firm and manages the American Chamber of Commerce in Calabria.

Pietro Paganini, an Adjunct Professor at John Cabot University, is the founder of Competere, a non-profit focused on publishing economic, social, and political analysis. Along with holding positions with the IIP and BAIA, he is a columnist for La Stampa.
